

Bill “Bull” Ohse

Comic - Actor - Writer

Bill “Bull” Ohse started his comedy career in front of an audience of four on Sept. 11th 2002, the one year anniversary of the trade center bombings, possibly the most difficult night in history to get a laugh, in spite of his uphill battle, he did well.

Within a year Bull was working as a stand-in M.C. for several local bay area comedy clubs, private, and corporate gigs.

Destined to be a success, Bull is a comedy promoters dream, his unique brand of comedy practically promotes itself, produces huge results and always leaves the audience wanting more.

Today Bull is a national touring comedian, who is an active member of Comics Reaching Out, a not for profit organization dedicated to raising money for those in need.
